

Centre for Innovation Ageing Swansea University

The Centre for Innovative Ageing at Swansea University is Wales' leading centre for ageing studies. They put a positive view of ageing and older people at the core of our business.

Through transformative research they ensure care, well-being and quality of life are underpinned by the latest in original, and innovative ideas.

Swansea University commissioned us following the fit out of an old engineering pump house on Singleton Campus. Our design team completed space planning and furniture specification, providing 2D design schemes and advice on fabrics and finishes.

This project was special to the Ministry team as the purpose of the unit is to monitor and support people with dementia which has effected a number of our families.
